

Winsor & Newton Communication COVID-19

The art world is like a family, and your wellbeing, alongside that of our teams, loved ones and communities, is our priority at this time and always. Be assured that we are taking the most up-to-date guidance from global and local health organisations and have taken action to slow the spread of the virus by increasing hygiene and quality control standards at all our facilities, as well as asking as many of our people to work from home as possible.

As expressed so well by Tolstoy, “Art, all art, has this characteristic, that it unites people” and this is needed more than ever when times are challenging. To help we have taken the decision to immediately release 20 new Masterclass videos to the worldwide art community on our YouTube channel. These previously subscription-only videos will hopefully help you to further your practice while at home or in the studio.

WATCH CLASSES

When life gets hard, communication and sharing becomes even more vital, so in the coming weeks we're here for you on our social channels. Stay connected with the community and together we will keep positive and exchange ideas.

Take care and keep in touch,
Winsor & Newton
