

The important role of art during the pandemic

Last month, Lindengruppen approached us as they wanted to write an article on how art has helped people cope during the pandemic. An independent journalist interviewed Dennis, Jane and Gail. The result demonstrates how we have effectively and proactively approached the many challenges that 2020 has presented us with. Read here for details of each interview and the full story.