

Colart is on a mission to cut out single-use plastics.

Single-use plastic is an important packaging element for many of our products. A couple of months ago, Lindengruppen approached us to write an article about our mission to cut out single-use plastics.

An independent journalist interviewed UK Manufacturing and Operations Support General Manager, Richard Llewellyn. The article explains what we are doing to be a catalyst for a more sustainable art material industry and how we will achieve zero single-use plastic by finding more sustainable alternatives.

Read here for details of each interview and the full story.