

Liquitex Artist Spotlight Program

Liquitex is continuing to feature artist-led content and deliver an authentic, enriching experience for our global audience. The Liquitex Artist Spotlight program is designed to celebrate artists worldwide and explore their lives, work, and studios. Liquitex is thrilled to continue sharing a diverse selection of artists, styles, and techniques to inspire artists of all experiences to feel empowered to create. Take a look at some of the artists we've already featured across our website and social channels.

Remembering Duggie Fields

Duggie Fields was a true art and fashion icon, regarded as one of the creative talents that defined British art in the 1970s and 80s. He possessed an unmistakable style and palette, inspired by the bold and bright cartoons he enjoyed throughout his childhood. Duggie lived surrounded by his own paintings, textiles and sculptures, and also applied his love and passion for painting into his wardrobe. Sadly, Duggie passed away in March, leaving behind a legacy of creativity and inspiring the next generation of imaginative creators. We are honored to have had the opportunity to work with him and share his incredible work with our audience. Learn more about Duggie's career here.

Sebastien Boileau "Mr. D"

Mr. D is a self-described "canpressionist" who believes that when it comes to art, rules do not apply. From large-scale outdoor murals to cars, pianos, canvases and everything in between, Mr. D takes the world by storm while challenging the stigma against urban art. Inspired by the graffiti movement in NYC, Mr. D continues to advocate for creative freedom while experimenting based on his changing moods. He believes that there's no limit to what artists can do and loves to collaborate with others in and out of the studio. See Mr. D in action here.

Sadé DuBoise

Sadé DuBoise is a self-taught visual storyteller, acrylic painter, nature lover and an orator of the Black experience in the Pacific Northwest. Through her work, Sadé celebrates the experiences of multi-racial people and paints portraits of African Americans in outdoor settings based on locations she's visited on hiking, backpacking and camping trips. While Sadé finds much of her inspiration in the great outdoors, she also scours social media to explore new models, artists and techniques. She recently transitioned to becoming a full-time artist and has been selected to paint a historical portrait of Justice Nelson, the first African American to sit on the Oregon Supreme Court to be shown in fall of 2021. Additionally, Sadé works to make original art more accessible by painting 4x6" portraits known as "mini originals" for $100. Learn more about Sadé's practice and upcoming projects here.

Adelaide Damoah

As a multidisciplinary artist, painter and performer, artist Adelaide Damoah explores social issues like colonialism, feminism, spirituality, and joy. Adelaide expresses herself with her entire body, both literally and figuratively, allowing her to truly embody and maximize her subject matter in a unique, non-traditional way. Her process is inspired by the project at hand, marrying organic and intuitive movement with reading, researching, thinking and soul searching. Throughout the COVID-19 pandemic, Adelaide found herself creating to drive awareness for social justice issues and elicit pure joy. She finds comfort and refuge in her specialized process while using her body as a canvas in her performance pieces. Learn more about Adelaide's process here.

Stay tuned as Liquitex continue to share more Artist Spotlights and evolve the program in the coming year.
