

Town Hall Meeting – Watch the video!

On Friday, 21st January, we held our regular Town Hall Meeting hosted by CEO Dennis van Schie.

This time Dennis surprised us not with two but four pieces of inspiration, two movies and two books. Both films were related to professional and personal growth. The first movie, The Wall, is a documentary about four female climbers facing the sporting challenge as they attempt to compete for the first-ever Olympic climbing competition. The second movie, 14 Peaks, a documentary, follows the Nepalese mountaineer Nirmal Purja as he tries to add cultural depth to the sport's highs. Dennis read a sentence from the book Spring Cannot be Cancelled, to make us reflect, "In this last remarkable couple of years, and especially during this strange seasons of pandemic and lockdown, he has managed to find more and more in less and less" and to finish his recommendations, he told us about his current reading, Antifragile: Things that Gain from disorder by Nicholas Taleb.

Dennis said that he is delighted and proud about last year financial results and announced that we hit the numbers in 2021, business is in good health. He also mentioned a slow start of the year, but margins are good.

Dennis also pointed out several posts on Colart Wall and encouraged everybody to go, read and participate on The Wall "it's a way to really see what's going on in the business".

From Piscataway to the rest of the world, V.P. & General Manager – North America, Steve Chamberlain and his team explained the current situation in DC4 and surprised us with a factory tour and many more things that we won't reveal. So, go ahead and check out the video. This week we will update the announcement and include the presentation.

Every THM, we see more questions and more comments. Thank you all for joining!

If you couldn't make it to the live event. Check out the video here.
